WHOLE No. 1390

D. APPLETON & COMPANY'S NEW BOOKS.

The Scientific Memoirs of Thomas Henry Huxley.

Edited by Prof. MICHAEL FOSTER, M.A., M.D., F.R.S., and by Prof. E. RAY LANKESTER, M.A., LL.D., F.R.S. In four volumes. Volume I., with 32 plates and a photogravure portrait, $7.50 net. (Edition limited to 100 sets.)

"It was a true insight which led Professors Foster and Ray Lankester, the editors of these memoirs, to undertake the work which, begun in this large volume of over 600 pages, is expected to extend to four volumes in all. No fitter memorial to Huxley could be imagined, no more appropriate attempt to uncover to general view the broad foundations upon which his claim to fame and reputation must rest in the future could be conceived, than to publish in collective form the papers which, for well-nigh half a century of scientific activity, he contributed to scientific societies and scientific periodicals. . . . These memoirs have left us with a very decided impression; we have been introduced, as it were, afresh to Huxley the specialist, Fellow of the Royal Society at twenty-six, its Royal Medallist at twenty-seven, a mind producing work of the first order, a figure which looms large and impressive on the imagination."—London Spectator.

The House of Hidden Treasure.

A Novel. By MAXWELL GRAY, author of "The Silence of Dean Maitland," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

This novel is regarded by the author as her most important and significant work since "The Silence of Dean Maitland." The scene is laid for the most part in England, and the story opens in the sixties. "There is a strong and pervading charm in this new novel," says the London Chronicle in the course of a long and enthusiastic review of the book, which is characterized as a picture of "a woman's ideal," and free from morbid thoughts and theories. The London Spectator says: "'The Silence of Dean Maitland' was a very popular novel, and we cannot see why 'The House of Hidden Treasure' should not rival the success of its forerunner."

Studies of Good and Evil.

By JOSIAH ROYCE, Professor of the History of Philosophy in Harvard University. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"Professor Royce is well known as one of the ablest writers on philosophical and ethical subjects in the country. And what he says on these themes is always worthy of attention."—Brooklyn Eagle.

"To anyone at all interested in the deeper intellectual problems of the time, these essays by Prof. Royce will open lines of thought that tend inevitably to a broadened mental horizon."—Boston Beacon.

Outlines of the Earth's History.

By Prof. N. S. SHALER, of Harvard University. Illustrated. 12mo, cloth, $1.75.

"Professor Shaler's bald title does not do him justice. It is too modest, and gives only the barest idea of the richness of the contents which lie between the covers of his book. From the first page onward, it reads like a romance, and holds the attention with engrossing interest."—New York Bookman.

The Play of Animals.

By KARL GROOS, Professor of Philosophy in the University of Basel. Translated, with the Author's co-operation, by Elizabeth L. Baldwin. With a Preface and an Appendix by J. Mark Baldwin. 12mo, cloth, $1.75.

"The book is a treasure-house of the most amusing and interesting stories about the entire brute creation, from elephants to ants, all adduced as illustrating some mental process. We feel that we are brought into closer contact with and a better understanding of those faithful friends from whom we learn so much."—Boston Beacon.

The Gospel Writ in Steel.

By ARTHUR PATERSON. 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00. No. 249, Appletons' Town and Country Library.

Mr. Paterson's story begins with the effect of the opening of the Civil War upon a village community, and pictures the motives and acts of the volunteers, their methods of organization and other features of preparation. A graphic account of Bull Run follows, and later the hero undergoes some remarkable adventures in the course of Sherman's March to the Sea. The book abounds in stirring experiences, and the love story which runs throughout has an unusual and piquant interest. At this time Mr. Paterson's novel will be certain to attract exceptional attention.

The Earth and Sky.

By EDWARD S. HOIDEN. Illustrated. Appletons' Home-Reading Books. 12mo, boards, 28 cents net.

This book is the first of a series of three volumes, treating of the leading phases of astronomical knowledge and designed for use as a reading-book in the school as well as in the home. It is written in a simple, conversational style to show first that the earth is not flat, but that it is an immense globe, and next its situation in space. The sun and moon are next treated, and finally the stars in their courses. The young child is shown how he can learn things for himself, and nothing is presented too difficult for him to comprehend.

NOTES IN SEASON.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS publish to-day "War Memories of an Army Chaplain," by H. C. Trumbull, D.D.; "The Discharge of Electricity in Gases," by J. J. Thompson, Cavendish Professor of Physics in the University of Cambridge; "The Story of a Yankee Boy," by Herbert E. Hamblen; "Boys of Fairport," by Noah Brooks; "American Girls' Handy Book," by Lina and Adelia B. Beard; and three new volumes by G. A. Henty.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT Co. have just ready "The War with Spain," a complete history of the war of 1898 between the United States and Spain, by Charles Morris, published with maps and illustrations, uniform with the author's recently published "The Nation's Navy: Our Ships and Their Achievements." These two books are interesting contributions to the history of our land, and will be sure to find a place in every library, and in the house of every patriotic American.

HERBERT S. STONE & Co. have just purchased the entire publishing business of Way & Williams, of Chicago, and will hereafter supply all the books which they have published. Way & Williams will confine their efforts to the publication of The Show Window, a trade journal devoted to shop-window decorations, which has proved very successful.

D. APPLETON & Co. publish this week "The House of Hidden Treasure," a novel by Maxwell Gray, which is regarded by the author as her most important and significant work since the publication of "The Silence of Dean Maitland." The scene is laid for the most part in England, and the story opens in the sixties. They have also just ready "The Gospel Writ in Steel," by Arthur Paterson, a story of the Civil War, dwelling particularly upon the motives and acts of the volunteers, their methods of organization, and other features of preparation, a subject of paramount interest again in hearts and minds throughout the land. This novel is one of the Town and Country Series.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. publish to-day the second volume of Hannis Taylor's notable work on "The Origin and Growth of the English Constitution, an historical treatise in which is drawn out, by the light of the most recent researches, the gradual development of the English constitutional system, and the growth out of that system of the Federal Republic of the United States," covering the subject of "The After-Growth of the Constitution;" "The Puritan," a new novel by Arlo Bates; "A Great Love," a novel by Clara Louise Burnham; "Traditions of the Thompson River Indians of British Columbia," collected by James Teit, with an introduction by Franz Boas, and notes, forming volume 6 of the Memoirs of the American Folk-Lore Society; "Poems of Robert Burns" and "Poems of John Keats," two new volumes in their excellent Cabinet edition of poets; and "The King of the Golden River, and Other Wonder Stories," being No. 126 of the Riverside Literature Series.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have just ready "Bismarck, Some Secret Pages of his History," being a diary by Dr. Moritz Busch. These secret pages of the great chancellor's history were written by Dr. Busch during twenty-five years' intercourse with him, and are said to throw light on many vexed questions of European politics during the past sixty years. Some years ago it was rumored that Bismarck had sent his personal memoirs to England with the view to their publication without restriction after his death. It has been hinted with some reason that Dr. Busch's memoirs are those to which this rumor referred. It seems that there may be some truth in the rumor if we may believe the statement that great excitement and consternation has been caused in high places in Germany by the approaching publication in England and America of Dr. Busch's memoirs. Dr. Busch's intimate familiar relations with Bismarck and the chancellor's almost reckless freedom of speech have given us what are probably the most important secret political memoirs of the century. The two volumes will contain some interesting photogravure portraits of Bismarck, and other illustrations. They have also just ready the second edition, revised and enlarged, of "The Story of Gladstone's Life," by Justin McCarthy, with chapters describing the last months of Gladstone's life and his funeral in Westminster Abbey. The volume is sumptuously gotten up and very fully illustrated.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

- Buchanan, Rob. Williams. The Rev. Annabel Lee: a tale of to-morrow. N. Y., M. F. Mansfield & Co., [Agts. for Ja. Bowden, 1898.] 4+255 p. D. cl., $1.50. [2612]
The time of this story concerning the religion of the future is the beginning of the twenty first century. Science and the religion of humanity are supposed to have made of the world an ideal place for human beings to exist, but death has not been conquered, human hearts retain their old longings and aches, and the hope that sustained them in past centuries has been taken from them. Dr Annabel Lee is a beautiful woman whose heart goes out to the sufferers still upon the earth. She preaches the religion of love to something beyond humanity, and recognizes the purpose of suffering and of death.
- Canton, W: The invisible playmate, and W. V., her book; 2 il. by C. E. Brock. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1898. c. '96, '98. 6+ 126 p. D. cl., $1 50. [2613]
The two works, "The invisible playmate" and "W. V., her book," heretofore published separately, are now issued together, revised, enlarged, and in the definitive and only form in which the writer wishes to offer them to American readers.
- Chapman, J: Jay. Causes and consequences. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1898. c. 8+ 166 p. D. cl., $1.25. [2614]
Chapters on Politics, Society, Education, Democracy, and Government. The chapters on Politics and Society seem to show that our political corruptions and social inferiorities can be traced to the same source—namely, temporary distortion of human character by the forces of commerce. The chapter on Education is a study on the law of intellectual growth. Democracy is a review of the subject by the light of the conclusions as to the nature of man arrived at in the essay on Education. In Government the author's deduction is that we shall not have good government in the United States till the people get over their personal dishonesty.
- Clark, Francis E., D.D. The everlasting arms. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1898.] c. 31 p. S. (What is worth while ser.) leatherette, 35 c. [2615]
The author is president of the United Society of Christian Endeavor. Poetically describes the different kinds of refuge required by man and animals.
- Colquhoun, Archibald Ross China in transformation. N. Y., Harper, 1898. c. 8+ 397 p. 1 il., maps, diagrams, O. cl., $3. [2616]
This work is the result of the writer's observations during several prolonged visits to the far east upon the problems which are in course of solution in China and the forces which are at work on them. The author says: "The work is strictly limited in scope to such an account of the actual China as may interest the general reader and be helpful to men of business, politicians, travellers, and others who may wish to be further informed regarding China. It makes no kind of pretension to be a book for the student."
- Corelli, Marie. The mighty atom. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1897. c. '96. D. (Lippincott's select novels, no. 209.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c. [2617]

An introduction treats of Cowper's place in English poetry, and gives details of his life. A bibliography follows (4 p.). Besides "The task," contains a dozen of his minor poems.
- Craik, Mrs. Dinah Maria, [formerly Miss Mulock.] The fairy book: the best popular stories selected and rendered anew. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1898.] c. 2-389 p. il. S. (Children's favorite classics.) cl., 60 c. [2619]
- Davis, Minnie S. Ideal motherhood. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1898.] c. 34 p. S. (What is worth while ser.) leatherette, 35 c. [2620]
The author is specially severe upon the ignorant marriages that daily take place between young people totally untrained to take the responsibilities of fatherhood and motherhood. Firmly believes in heredity to the third and fourth generation.
- Dembitz, L: N. Jewish services in synagogue and home. Phil., The Jewish Pub. Soc. of America, 1898. c. 4-487 p. O. cl. $1.75. [2621]
In five books. The first is a general and historical introduction. The others contain the devotions of the synagogue, the exercises for the desk and the pulpit, accounts of incidents and ceremonies that occur in the ceremonies, with a final chapter on the Jewish home.

Fraser, Mrs. C. F. Master Sunshine. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1898.] c. 3+54 p. il. sq. D. (Sunshine lib.) cl., 50 c. [2622]

The story of a little boy who, though by no means faultless, endears himself to every one through his sunshiny disposition.

Gage, Alfred Payson. The elements of physics: a text-book for high schools and academies. Rev. ed. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1898. c. '82, '98. 8+381 p. il. D. hf. leath., $1.20. [2623]

Genung, J. Franklin. What a carpenter did with his Bible: an address. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1898.] c. 31 p. D. (What is worth while ser.) leatherette, 25 c. [2624]

Describes the great use made by Jesus Christ of the Scriptures, which he knew by heart. The author is professor of rhetoric at Amherst and eloquent in showing the far greater opportunities now enjoyed by mechanics for spiritual and intellectual culture.

Gillilan, S. W. Finnigin to Flannigan: an Irish dialect story in verse; il. by Roy W. Taylor. Richmond, Ind., Nicholson Printing and Mfg. Co., [1898.] c. 8 p. sq. D. pap., 25 c. [2625]

See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., October 21, 1898, [1134.]

Gordon, Anna A. Frances E. Willard: a memorial volume; introd. by Lady Henry Somerset; with character studies and memorial tributes. Chic., [Monarch Book Co., 1898.] c. 6+416 p. por. il. O. cl., $1.50. [2627]

Pt. 1 is devoted to a life of Frances E. Willard, the founder of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, by Miss Gordon, for twenty-one years her private secretary. Pt. 2 embraces an account of commemorative services held at her death in various cities; also character sketches and tributes from prominent men and women all over the world. This work has hitherto been sold by subscription. It may now, for the first time, be obtained through the regular trade.

Goss, Warren Lee. In the navy; or, father against son: a story of naval adventures in the great civil war, '61-'65. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1898.] c. 11+399 p. il. D. cl., $1.50. [2628]

Life north and south before the war forms the subject of the first chapters. The young hero enters the navy of the north and sees service on the inland waters of Virginia and South Carolina during the Civil War. The aim of the story is to be fair to both sides—to show that in many cases the Confederates were inspired also with a high sense of right and honor.

Greene, Homer. The blind brother: a story of the Pennsylvania coal mines. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1898.] c. '87. 7-166 p. il. sq. D. (Sunshine lib.) cl., 50 c. [2629]

Hibben, J. Grier. The problems of philosophy: an introduction to the study of philosophy. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1898. 7+203 p. D. cl., $1. [2633]

Gives in ten chapters simple statements of the various schools of philosophy, with the salient features of their teachings, and indicating the chief points at issue in reference to controverted questions. No attempt is made to present a detailed account or exhaustive criticism of philosophical systems, but merely to furnish the student who is beginning the study of philosophy a bird's-eye view of the general philosophical territory.

Hocking, Silas K. The culture of manhood. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., 1898. c. 32 p. S. (What is worth while ser.) leatherette, 35 c. [2634]

Manhood is defined as a healthy soul in a healthy body, a vigorous mind, a strong physique, and an unyielding moral nature—a union of Samson's strength, Solomon's wisdom, and St. Paul's intense spirituality.

Hogan, Louise E. A study of a child; il. with over 500 original drawings by the child. N. Y., Harper, 1898. c. 11+220 p. O. cl., $2.50. [2635]

A seven-years' diary of a child's natural growth, showing how he learned to talk, read, write, add, etc., without direct teaching; and how, incidentally, the cultivation of obedience, trust, and other necessary attributes of healthy growth in childhood were influenced. The collection of colored frontispieces, drawings, and cuttings, of which there are over five hundred, originated in the child's mind, as the result of his activity. They are accompanied by the child's explanations, and in many instances are interesting and thoughtful. There is quite an element of fun throughout the book.

Jerome, Harriet Louise. The gap in the fence. Bost., The Pilgrim Press, [1898.] c. 2-275 p. il. D. cl., $1.25. [2638]

A children's story, full of simple incidents.

Kaler, Ja. Otis, ["James Otis," pseud.] Dick in the desert. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1898.] c. '93. 4+84 p. il. D. (Sunshine lib.) cl., 50 c. [2639]

The story of a plucky western lad who, caught with his father and mother on the edge of Smoke Creek Desert, in Western Nevada, makes a desperate dash on foot across the waste and brings aid to his father, suffering from a gun-shot wound.

Kaler, Ja. Otis, ["James Otis," pseud.] Joel Harford; il. by C: Copeland. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1898.] c. 3+200 p. il. D. cl., $1.25. [2640]

Tells of the adventures of a country boy who comes to New York to earn a living and to make his way in the world. He meets two bootblacks near City Hall, and they initiate him into the ways of the very poor of a great city. After being robbed and otherwise ill-treated he gets into a successful business.

Kobbé, Gustav. Miriam; il. by M. J. Burns. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1898.] c. 4-54 p. il. D. cl., 50 c. [2641]

ship. The chief episode is the taking of a live baby from a wreck. This has a very pathetic side, which is well told.

Krausé, Lydia Farrington, ["Barbara Yech-ton," pseud.] A lovable crank; or, more leaves from the roses; il. by Minna Brown. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1898. c. '97, '98. 6+346 p. O. cl., $1.50. [2642]

Continues the story of the Rose family begun with "We ten." The "ten" have almost all grown up in this volume. Felix, the lame boy, is the "lovable crank;" he has finished his law studies and won his first case. Alice Endicott, a young friend of Betty Rose, is the centre of interest. She is a Boston girl, who spends a year in New York with the Rose family. Two of the Rose boys fall in love with her, and there is almost a tragedy. Betty, too, has her love affair.

Krout, Mary H. Hawaii and a revolution: the personal experiences of a correspondent in the Sandwich Islands during the crisis of 1893 and subsequently. N. Y., Dodd, Mead, & Co., 1898. c. 13+330 p. il. D. cl., $2. [2643]

The writer went to the islands prejudiced in favor of the natives and sympathizing with them because they had been deprived of their possessions. A conscientious study of the situation led her to change her views absolutely. She describes the Hawaiian as a fading race, with remnants of heathen customs hampering it; thinks it cannot develop and must be absorbed by a stronger power. The life of the islands is described in detail. The writer thinks annexation right, lawful, and expedient. Full index.

Leonard, Mary F. The story of the big front door. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1898.] c. 4+258 p. il. D. cl., $1.25. [2644]

A family of lively boys and girls under the charge of a lovely aunt lived in an old-fashioned house in a small eastern town, whose hospitable entrance is called "the big front door." Every one found a welcome here, the doings of the children and their many friends making a very readable story for young people.

Le Queux, W. Scribes and pharisees: a story of literary London. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1898. c. 5+306 p. D. cl., $1.25. [2645]

The fortunes of three artists living in Bohemian fashion when first introduced in the Quartier Latin of Paris are traced through the story. A mysterious woman, loved by one of the men, is mysteriously murdered, her death bringing to an end the housekeeping partnership of the three men. One of the artists, an Irishman, becomes famous and sets up his studio in London. The second, an Englishman, gives up art for literature, returning to England to take charge of a country paper. His career through journalism and as a successful novelist is minutely followed, offering many interesting facts. The mysterious murder of the first chapters shadows the whole story, its final development in its relation to the characters being a great surprise.

Marchmont, Arthur W. A moment's error; or, the mystery of Mortimer Strange. N. Y. and Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., [1898.] c. '92, '98. 3-381 p. D. (Globe lib., v. 2, no. 293.) pap., 25 c. [2650]

Yielding to a moment's temptation, Mortimer Strange retains a thousand pounds he had collected for his employer. For years he had held the belief that if he could get to the colonies with a fair sum of money in his pocket he would win wealth. He makes all his preparations to sail, when the thought of his sister and the girl he is engaged to fills him with remorse and he determines to return the money and expiate his sin. While returning home he is knocked down and robbed and finds himself weeks afterward in an hospital disfigured and penniless. He goes to the colonies after all, makes a fortune, restores the thousand pounds with interest, and returns to London to track down the man or men who assaulted and robbed him.

Marden, Orison Swett. The secret of achievement: a book designed to teach that the highest achievement is that which results in noble manhood and womanhood; that there is something greater than wealth, grander than fame; that character is the only success. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1898.] c. 7+372 p. pors. D. cl., $1.50. [2651]

A succession of stimulating anecdotes, showing how energy, force of well-directed will, application, lofty purpose and noble ideas serve to win success even against the greatest odds. These are grouped, with much excellent advice, under the following headings: Moral sunshine; Blessed be drudgery; Honesty as a principle—as a policy; Habit, the servant—the master; Trifles; The conquest of obstacles; How to meet life; Self-control; The school of life; Being and seeming; Decide; Tenacity of purpose; The art of keeping well; Purity is power; A home of my own; Making the most of life.

Morrison, Sarah E. Chilhowee boys in harness. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1898.] c. 5+384 p. il. D. cl., $1.25. [2660]

This volume ends the story of the Chilhowee boys. It shows the growing success of Parson Craig's noble-hearted sons and follows the fortunes of the youngest, John, who also sets out to see the world and who has some trying experiences. Allan Baird's career as a doctor is traced and the improvement in his character delineated.

Murray, Rev. Andrew. The fruit of the vine. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1898.] c. 48 p. D. (What is worth while ser.) leatherette, 35 c. [2661]

The fruit of the vine should be character and conduct, a truth which the author impresses with poetic allegory.

Newcomb, Katharine H. Helps to right living. Bost., G: H. Ellis, 1898. c. 7+171 p. nar. O. cl., $1.25. [2662]

A number of short, helpful articles on: Spiritual force; Sense of separateness; Forgetting; Foundations; Certainty; Difficulties, etc., etc.

Perry, Walter Copeland. The women of Homer. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1898. c. 20+241 p. por. il. O. cl., $2.50. [2667]

The author of "Greek and Roman sculpture" treats the work of Homer more from the literary and artistic than the historic side. He begins with an essay on the poet to whom is ascribed the "Iliad" and the "Odyssey," then gives a description of Greece in his day, and finally takes the various women characters of mythology and dwells upon the special characteristics of womanhood for which they stand. The illustrations are from the celebrated sculptures and paintings of the art museums of the world.

Robinson, Harriet H. Loom and spindle; or, life among the early mill girls; with a sketch of "The Lowell Offering" and some of its contributors; introd. by Carroll D. Wright. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1898.] c. 7+216 p. S. cl., $1.25. [2670]

The author was a mill girl at Lowell in the days when Lucy Larcom and a group of intellectual girls edited the Lowell Offering. She pictures the conditions of the American working girl of those days, and compares her mental and social status with those of the same class of workers to-day. As a history of a completely vanished phase of working-girl life the book has much historical value. Biographies of many well-known girls are included.

This is a history of the evolution of government in this country, and it recalls the changes in the ideas and opinions which the American people have held respecting the principles, the organization, and the administration of their civil institutions. It deals with the nation as a great constituency engaged in working out a political system. The process has been one of individual and social amelioration, through many struggles, among which the chief are those for the extension of the suffrage; for the equitable apportionment of representation; for the abolition of discriminations on account of race; for the organization of systems of free schools; for the separation of the state from questionable practices, and for the establishment of government directly upon the will of the people. Nine maps illustrate the changes in population and in the political division of the country from 1776 to 1850. An exhaustive index and an analytical table of contents, by chapters, add to the usefulness of the work.

Thurston, Mrs. I. T. A frontier hero. Bost., The Pilgrim Press, [1898.] c. 300 p. il. D. cl., $1.25. [2684]

This story takes the young reader into the home of a home missionary pastor, but it is not a description of home missionary work. The frontier hero is the missionary's son, David Hayes. He is a manly and really heroic boy, but the heroism is shown in his doing of things that come to him to do. How that heroism made its impression upon Paul Bartlett, neglected son of a New York millionaire, and how he, too, became a manly fellow, the story tells in a way that is full of interest.

Tufts, Ja. H., and Thompson, Helen B. The individual and his relation to society as reflected in British ethics. Pt. 1, The individual in relation to law and institutions. Chic., The University of Chicago Press, 1898. c. 2+53 p. O. (University of Chicago contributions to philosophy, no. 5.) pap., 35 c. [2687]

British ethical reflection may be conveniently considered under three periods: the first antecedent to Shaftesbury; the second extending from Shaftesbury to the close of the eighteenth century; the third embracing the present century. The present essay, which is designed to form part of a study of the development of individuality and individualism as reflected in modern thought, will confine itself to the first two periods, and, without pretending to be exhaustive, will aim to interpret the leading categories in terms of the actual life of the writers.—Introduction.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

HINTS FOR THE BUYER.

To buy well requires something more than money. Indeed, generally speaking, buying for a miscellaneous bookstore is perhaps a special gift fully as much as an art that may be mastered. Something more is required of a buyer than an exact knowledge of the goods to be purchased, though that also is not an unimportant requisite. In the first place, the buyer must have the commercial instinct strongly developed. If he permits sentiment to temper his judgment his usefulness will become impaired, and if he persists in this direction it may in the end mean ruin.

Then it is not only necessary that the buyer should know his own mind, he must also know the mind of his constituency. Especially must he keep in touch with the literary movements of the day. There is a fashion in reading as there is in other things, and what will go at one time will stick at another. It is necessary, therefore, that the buyer keep himself informed of any turn in the tide, so that he may be prepared to sail with the new current, and be caught with as little as possible of the out-of-date stock.

While over-boldness is to be guarded against, it is almost as great a mistake to be timid. Timidity never accomplished anything in this world. All buyers make mistakes at some time. But if a buyer waits until he is entirely certain that he will not do anything wrong from a business standpoint, he will never accomplish his object in this life. Mistakes, though annoying, and at times expensive, may often be turned to good use as guides in the future, and in that way prove blessings in disguise.

NEWSDEALERS' CONVENTION.

THE annual meeting of the Newsdealers', Booksellers' and Stationers' National Association of the United States opened in the forenoon of the 13th inst., at the Grand Central Palace, 43d Street and Lexington Avenue, New York. There were present about one hundred delegates, among whom were the following officers: W. D. Madigan, of Lancaster, Pa., vice-president; I. Oldenheimer, of Baltimore, second vice-president; J. H. Reilly, of Providence, R. I.; E. E. Herold, of Baltimore; J. E. Grey, of West Everett Mass.; A. W. Rice, of Stoneham, Mass.; and C. F. Pettie, of Bridgeport, Conn.

The open session was called to order by the president, Thomas F. Martin, of New York. The other officers present were W. D. Madigan and I. Oldenheimer, vice-presidents; T. J. Quinn, treasurer; Henry Malkan, secretary; and C. F. Pettie, custodian. The larger part of the session was taken up with the appointment of the committees.

In his opening address President Martin spoke of the need of the adoption of some measure which would prevent papers which have been sold from being returned to the publishers. He declared that he knew it to be a fact that small dealers employed boys to collect papers which had been read from persons leaving trains and ferries, and returned them to the publishers. President Martin also referred to the custom practised by some storekeepers of selling books and periodicals at less than cost prices to attract customers to their other wares. Acting upon the suggestion of President Martin, the Committee on Resolutions afterward submitted the following:

Resolved, That we favor the adoption of a system whereby papers that have been sold once will not be returned to the publishers.

Resolved, That we favor the adoption of a system which will compel department stores to sell books and periodicals at the marked price.

A large number of the delegates to the convention visited the Polo Grounds in the afternoon, and in the evening they attended a dinner at the Grand Central Palace, tendered to the members of the convention by the New York Newsdealers P. and B. Association. No formal toast list had been prepared. J. Mack introduced the speakers. P. J. McBride, of New York, spoke of "The Father of Our Local Association;" Arthur Brisbane of "Our Bread and Butter, the Morning Papers;" M. May, of Pawtucket, R. I., on "Our Out-of-Town Associations;" T. Lunt, of Brooklyn, of "Trade in Our Sister City;" ex-Assemblyman D. P. Murphy, of "Our Legislature;" ex-President Murphy, of Typographical Union No. 6, of "An Allied Industry;" Terry Smith on "Law as We Have Fought It;" and President Martin on "The Amalgamation of Publisher and Dealer."

At the dinner Secretary Malkan rendered his annual report, which showed that fifty meetings had been held since the Baltimore convention, virtually making weekly meetings; that more than three thousand communications had been sent out to the trade members, in addition to eight thousand copies of The Bulletin, containing the convention proceedings of last year, and other matters pertaining to the trade. Associations had also been organized in Baltimore, Md., and Lancaster, Pa., and many dealers in scantily populated districts had individually joined the association.

Recommendations looking to future organization were also made. It was pointed out that according to present practice when a new periodical is started the dealers are only represented by the wholesale agent, who alone is consulted in regard to their interests. This agent being a great company naturally looking first to its own interests, it was thought could not give unbiased representation to the dealers' side of questions.

The second day's session was attended by nearly two hundred delegates. The principal business of the day was the election of officers for the coming year. The Nominating Committee proposed the names of the old board of officers, with the exception of that of Henry Malkan for secretary, who had declined re-election. In his place F. R. Sampson, of New York City, was nominated. The officers were elected without opposition, the names of a number of them being cheered vociferously.

Shortly before noon the convention was called to order by the president. After some minor matters had been discussed the resolution of the Committee on Resolutions, which had been read on the day before, favoring the adoption of a system by which newspapers which have once been sold cannot be returned to the publishers, again came up for discussion. It was suggested by one delegate that a good plan would be for the publishers of newspapers, as soon as the papers are issued, to fasten two of the corners together in such a way that a reader would be obliged to break the fastening. This would effectually prevent the papers being returned to small news agents by the readers, and by the dealers to the publishers.

One delegate said that it was a common practice among some small news agents to allow customers who return the papers at a discount after they had read them. The papers were then sent as "returns" to the publishers, who were powerless to prevent the practice. The fastening together of the pages in the way suggested would prevent this species of fraud. Attention was also called to the groups of men and boys who stand at the bottom of elevated station stairways downtown and beg newspapers from the passengers. The plan suggested would also, it was stated, put a stop to this practice. Those who gave the papers to the boys and men supposed that they were doing a charitable action in assisting them to obtain a stock for sale, but, as a matter of fact, they were helping to perpetrate a fraud upon the newspaper publishers.

One delegate remarked that the fastening of the right-hand corners of newspapers could only be of benefit locally, as if the papers were sent to a distance the fastenings were very likely to break and a great injustice might in consequence be done to out-of-town news agents.

The recommendation of the Committee on Resolutions was endorsed by the convention.

It was decided that the next convention be held in Buffalo, for two days, between August 15 and 22, 1899. Mr. Bromecourt, of Buffalo, was empowered to make the necessary arrangements for the convention.

The members adjourned about 1.30 o'clock for luncheon. In the afternoon the question of the publication of an organ representing the interests of newsdealers was the most important subject discussed.

It was resolved that a committee be appointed to arrange for such a publication, it being evidently the general desire of the members that the paper which was issued some time ago, but which was suspended, be again published. The president appointed Messrs. Sampson, Brennan, Mack, McGrath, Lunt, and Brophy to serve on the committee.

BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATIONS.

BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE DINNER.

THE Booksellers' League Dinner, given at the French Restaurant, J. B. G., at 111 W. 25th Street, New York, on the evening of the 14th inst., was an enjoyable affair, and attended by upward of fifty members. After the coffee had been served, the president, Charles A. Burkhardt, called attention to the fact that in order to continue the work of the League, and to provide more liberally for the entertainment of its members than in the past, it would be necessary to raise the annual dues. Before the discussion of the subject Paul B. du Chaillu was induced to address a few remarks to the League. The famous explorer was in a delightfully happy humor and was generously applauded. W. H. Parker then moved that the annual dues of the League should hereafter be fixed at $5 a year, payable semi-annually in advance on the first days of April and October. The motion was seconded and unanimously adopted. Volney Streamer was then induced to recite, which he did very acceptably. After short speeches from Mr. Shoemaker, of Philadelphia, and others, the sitting adjourned.

DR. J. D. BARBEE VINDICATED.

LAST week Dr. J. A. Orman, Presiding Elder of the Murfreesboro district of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, upon his own motion, and by virtue of the authority vested in him by the church discipline, appointed a committee of ministers to investigate rumors that involved the moral character of Dr. J. D. Barbee, book agent of the publishing house of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. These rumors grew out of the Methodist Publishing House claim matter. The committee met on the 9th inst. at McKendree Church, Nashville, Tenn., and after a session lasting all day gave out the following statement: "The committee, after carefully and prayerfully examining all the testimony in the case, unanimously report a trial before the Tennessee Conference, soon to meet, unnecessary, thereby vindicating the good name of Dr. Barbee."

LITERARY TREASURES FOUND.

C. NORRIS MATTHEWS, the librarian of Bristol, has made a most interesting discovery. Among a great number of brown-paper parcels in the lumber-room of the library he has found a grand folio of St. Augustin's "De Civitate Dei," printed in Basle in 1479; Peter Martyr's "De Orbe Novo Decades," containing the earliest printed data of Cabot's voyages, and another work, with notes, supposedly made by the hand of Chatterton. Besides these, Mr. Matthews discovered some interesting manuscripts on the subject of mediæval surgery and numerous other valuable works.

AN AMERICAN BOOK BARRED IN ROME.

THE Sacred Congregation has placed in the Index Expurgatorius the book entitled "Monks and Their Decline," written by Father G. Zurcher, of St. Joseph's Church, Buffalo, N. Y., and published by him in June last.

LAW PERIODICALS ARE LITERATURE.

T. & J. W. JOHNSON & Co., of Philadelphia, protested against the imposition of 25 per cent. duty on a batch of English law reports which they imported and claimed were entitled to free admission under Paragraph 621. The question was raised: Are law periodicals literature? The following definition of "literature" was quoted: "Literature is the portion of literary productions that excludes the positive sciences." "But we have no reason to suppose," decided the Board of Classification of the United States General Appraisers, "that the term is used in a restricted sense in the Tariff act. The provision, 'periodicals containing current literature,' in the Tariff act, might be fairly paraphrased to read 'periodicals containing reports of current events.'" The protest was sustained.

COPYRIGHT MATTERS.

COPYRIGHT IN MEXICO.

CONSUL-GENERAL BARLOW has sent from the City of Mexico the following synopsis of the Mexican copyright law:

There will be no distinction between Mexicans and foreigners, provided the work in question be published in Mexico. The author enjoys the copyright during his life; at his death it goes to his heirs. He can dispose of it as any other kind of property in his possession. By prescription, however, his right expires in the course of ten years.

The law concedes to the author the right of publishing translations of his works, but in this case he must declare whether he reserves his right to one or to all languages. This right is granted for ten years to authors who do not reside in Mexico and who publish their works abroad.

In order to acquire the copyright the author, translator, or editor must apply personally or by his representative to the Department of Public Instruction, making note that he reserves his rights and accompanies it with two copies of his work.

If it be desired to obtain copyrights of some work of music, engraving, lithograph, or the like, two copies must also be sent. If it be a work of architecture, painting, or sculpture, a copy of a drawing or a plan, giving dimensions and all other details which characterize the original, shall be presented.

A foreign author not resident in Mexico must send power of attorney, drawn before a notary public and certified by a Mexican consul. This in its turn has to be legalized by the State Department of Mexico and protocolized, duly translated. For these services $25 is charged and $25 more for the work to be done in obtaining the copyright, including the value of federal stamps.

OBITUARY NOTES.

STÉPHANE MALLARMÉ, the essayist and poet, died in Paris on the 9th inst. He was born in Paris in 1842. Among his better-known books are: "Villiers de l'Isle-Adam," "Vathek," "La Musique et les Lettres," "Vers et Prose," "Divagations," and "Les Poèmes de Edgard Poe." The latter book has been pronounced by critics to be as fine an estimate of the work of Poe as can be found in the mass of literature devoted to his remarkable talent and strange personality. He was for a number of years professor at the Lycée Fontanes in Paris.

MORRIS A. WHITCOMB died suddenly recently in Norwich, N. Y. He was born in Poolville, N. Y., August 14, 1838. In January, 1870, he removed to Norwich, where he became a member of the firm of Barber & Whitcomb, booksellers and stationers. In 1882 the partnership was dissolved, and a year later Whitcomb opened a new book and stationery store. In 1886 he associated himself with George T. Dunham, who remained his partner for three years, since which time Mr. Whitcomb continued the business alone.

"BLANCHE ROOSEVELT," who twenty years ago was perhaps better known as a singer than she has more recently been known as an author, died in London on the 10th inst. Blanche Tucker was born in Sandusky, O., in 1853, and spent her childhood in La Crosse, Wis. Her father, W. H. Tucker, belonged to the Virginia family of that name and was a leader in Wisconsin politics. She moved to Chicago with her mother, who was a newspaper writer, and her two sisters after she had reached maturity, and then studied for the operatic stage in Italy. When she went abroad she adopted the name of her grandfather, Gen. Roosevelt, of Lundy's Lane fame, and called herself Blanche Roosevelt. She made her début under the direction of the elder Gye in 1876. Although she was a beautiful woman, it became evident that she was not likely to become a great singer, and after a career of about eight years she left the stage. In that time she appeared in comic opera as well, and was the original Mabel of "The Pirates of Penzance," when the opera was sung in New York first at the Fifth Avenue Theatre. She also appeared in an operetta which she and Arthur Cellier wrote from Longfellow's "Masque of Pandora." This was a failure, and, after singing occasionally in concert, Miss Roosevelt, in deference to the wish of her husband, retired from the stage. After that time she lived in Europe and devoted herself to writing. She lived almost exclusively in London during recent years. Among her works, which were largely biographical and descriptive, were "Home Life of Henry W. Longfellow," "Marked 'In Haste,' a story of to-day," "Stage-struck, or, she would be an opera singer," "Life and Reminiscences of Gustave Doré," compiled from material supplied by Doré's relations and friends, and from personal recollections, "The Copper Queen, a novel," "Verdi, Milan and Othello," and "Elizabeth of Roumania, a study, with two tales from the German of Carmen Sylva." Twenty years ago she was married to the Marquis Machedda d'Allegri.

EX-JUDGE THOMAS MCINTYRE COOLEY died at Ann Arbor, Mich., on the 12th inst. He was born near Attica, Wyoming County, N. Y., January 6, 1824. In 1834 he removed to Michigan, and, after his admission to the bar in 1845, he practiced law in Tecumseh, Mich. Settling in Adrian, he edited The Watch-Tower, in which capacity he gained considerable reputation for good judgment and solid attainments. In 1857 he was selected by the Michigan legislature to compile and publish the State laws, and a year later was also appointed reporter of the decisions of the Supreme Court. In 1859 he was chosen as one of the professors in the Law Department of Michigan. He became Dean of the Faculty, and continued in that position until 1885, when he retired from the bench. He served as justice of the Michigan Supreme Court for eight years and as chief justice from 1868 to 1869. From 1885 to 1888 he was Professor of American History in the University of Michigan, lecturing also on Constitutional law and kindred subjects. In 1887 the United States Circuit Court at Chicago appointed Judge Cooley receiver of the Wabash Railway Company. He undertook the active management of this property, until President Cleveland urged him to resign and accept appointment as Inter-State Commerce Commissioner. This position he held for four years. His fellow-members chose him as chairman of the commission. His health broke down in 1891 and he retired from active life. Judge Cooley will be remembered longest for his achievements in the field of Constitutional law. His great work, "The Constitutional Limitations Which Rest Upon the Legislative Power of the States of the American Union," which was published in 1868, at once became the standard authority on that subject. Besides this and works that may be called compilations, as "The Michigan Reports and Digests," he edited the "Commentaries" of Blackstone and Story's "Commentaries on the Constitution of the United States." His other works are "Law of Taxation," "Law of Torts," "General Principles of Constitutional Law in the United States," and "Michigan, a History of Governments." Most of the legal articles in the "American Cyclopaedia" were also written by him, and he was for many years a prolific contributor to reviews and magazines.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

L. KNIGHT, formerly manager of the New York branch of Ward, Lock & Co., returned from his trip through Canada and sailed for England on the 14th inst. by the Majestic. In November he expects to make a trip through India for his house.

THE ROYCROFT SHOP, of East Aurora, N. Y., announces an elaborate édition de luxe of the "Rubáiyát of Omar Khayyám," being the Fitzgerald translation of 1879, with the address of the Hon. John Hay at the Omar Khayyám Club, London, as a preface.

GEORGE C. WHITWORTH, for many years in the retail department of A. D. F. Randolph & Co., and with Bonnell, Silver & Co. since the firm started, has taken a position with the American Baptist Publication Society, New York City, where he will have full charge of the retail department.

E. L. KELLOGG & Co., 61 East 9th Street, New York, are publishing monthly, under the title of Animals, a popular natural history containing reproductions of photographs from animal life in all parts of the world, with accurate and interesting descriptions. The periodical is admirably adapted for school-work. No. 1 is dated September. Subscription price, $1.50 a year; single copies, 15 cents.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. have just ready Dr. George Hepworth's account of his tour "Through Armenia on Horseback," fully illustrated; the Falstaff edition of Shakespeare in 34 volumes, which may also be had separately; also, "Book of Cats," a discourse on cats, with many quotations and original drawings; by Mrs. W. Chance. Their other books are either quite or very nearly ready.

CHARLES A. BURKHARDT, of E. P. Dutton & Co., has completed a "continuous calendar" by means of which a date of the past and future may be as readily and easily determined as one of the present. The calendar is neat and durable, and will be found useful by the business or professional man. The trade will be supplied by George B. Hurd & Co., 427 Broome Street, New York, and H. H. Carter & Co., 5 Somerset Street, Boston.

STAN. V. HENKELS, through Davis & Harvey, 1112 Walnut Street, Philadelphia, will sell at auction during the latter part of October several hundred items of rare and scarce Americana, forming part of the valuable library of a well-known Philadelphia collector. The lots include a collection of early American Bibles—notably those printed by Saur, Aitken, Carey, Hall & Sellers—early school-books, books from the libraries of distinguished persons, one of the largest collections of books on the "Junius" controversy in America, and a number of valuable historical manuscripts, including several of William Penn's deeds and Franklin autographs.

C. A. MONTGOMERY, well known in book-trade circles, will represent the Farm and Fireside and the Woman's Home Companion, of Springfield, Ohio, among eastern advertisers in future. The New York office will be continued in the Times building. Mr. Montgomery has heretofore lived a busy life in a field which amply equips him for combining art with advertising. He has been connected with two or more well-known lithographic houses, including the Forbes Lithograph Co., of Boston, a concern which has done much work for newspaper publishers. In this line of work he has made many good friends among the leading advertisers, whose outlays for publicity include color-work.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish shortly in the Heroes of the Nations series "Bismarck and the New German Empire, how it arose and what it displaced," by J. W. Headlam, of King's College, Cambridge, who has had this volume in preparation for four years, and had just completed it for the press at the time of the death of the Iron Chancellor. "The Story of the West Indies," by Amos K. Fiske, will be added to the Story of the Nations series. The volume will include a brief account of the physical origin and general characteristics of the islands, their condition prior to discovery, a record of the Spanish discoveries and of the buccaneering period, a geographical and statistical description of the different groups of islands, and a comprehensive account of their present political status and prospects.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just published a translation of a portion of an "Encyclopedia of Sacred Theology—its principles," by Dr. Abraham Kuyper, of the Amsterdam Free University. The translation from the Dutch has been made by Rev. J. H. De Vries, and covers the first fifty-three pages of the first volume of the original, and the second volume. If the work receives adequate support Mr. De Vries will undertake to translate the remaining volume. Prof. Benjamin B. Warfield, of Princeton Theological Seminary, has furnished a comprehensive introduction to the volume. They have also just ready a volume entitled "Causes and Consequences," by John Jay Chapman, who discusses politics, society, education, democracy, and government; "The Problems of Philosophy, an introduction to the study of philosophy," by Prof. John Grier Hibben, of Princeton; the eighth edition of Mary White's "Book of Games;" and a reissue of three volumes of the Navy in the Civil War series, including Prof. James R. Soley's "The Blockade and the Cruisers," Capt. A. T. Mahan's "The Gulf and Inland Waters," and Admiral Daniel Ammen's "The Atlantic Coast."

FOREIGN NOTES.

GRANT RICHARDS, London, will begin this month The Russian Library, a new series edited by W. T. Stead. The first volume will be Pobyedonotseff's "Reflections of a Russian Statesman," translated by R. C. Long, with an introduction by Madame Novikoff.

VAILIMA, the historic Samoan home of Robert Louis Stevenson, has been stripped from turret to basement, and now stands in the midst of the broad acres that composed the place, an empty shell. The property was brought to San Francisco in the schooner Sophia Sutherland.

GEORGE REDWAY, London, will publish in a few weeks "Dickens and His Illustrators," by F. G. Kitton, a well-known authority on the novelist. A special feature of the volume will be the reproduction for the first time of drawings which were "studies" for the pictures that actually appeared in the original editions. Some of Dickens' correspondence which has never been made public will also be included.

THE publication of Paget Toynbee's "Dante Dictionary," which was to have been brought out in London, has been postponed until the autumn. The work is exciting much comment among Dante scholars abroad, and criticism will very likely be rife among those who have not seen the advance sheets. Mr. Toynbee is said to confine himself rather to the philological part of Dante's diction, and has little to say of scholastic philosophy in interpreting the phrases.

WILLIAM HEINEMANN has in preparation a series of twelve volumes, which will be entitled "A View of the World in 1900." The series will be begun early next year and will be completed early in 1900. Prof. H. J. MacKinder, of Oxford, is the editor. The various writers intend to give a perspective of the world in 1900, taking into consideration the extraordinary evolutions and changes which have taken place on the globe during the nineteenth century—brought about not only by new discoveries, but also through the drawing together of the distant parts and our daily knowledge of every change by land and sea. The following volumes will be the first to appear: "Britain and the North Atlantic," by the editor; "Scandinavia and the Arctic Ocean," by Sir Clements R. Markham; "France and the Mediterranean," by Élisée Reclus; "Central Europe," by Prof. Joseph Partsch; "Africa," by Dr. J. Scott Keltie; "The Near East," by D. G. Hogarth; "The Russian Empire," by Prince Kropotkin; "India," by Col. Sir Thomas Holdich; and "Australasia and Antarctica," by Dr. H. O. Forbes. Archibald Little will write on "The Far East," and two American authorities on North and South America.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BOULDER, COL.—A. M. & S. A. Sawyer, booksellers, have sold out to E. D. Bouton.

BURNS, ORE.—J. C. Worthington has sold out his stock of stationery, etc.

FRANKLIN, KY.—M. S. Wilkerson and S. Richards have bought the bookstore of Thomas Neely.

HENRIETTA, GA.—J. B. Hurd has bought the business of J. A. George, bookseller.

LEWISTON, ME.—W. W. Bolster, Jr., has bought the Bates College Bookstore.

LINCOLN, NEB.—H. W. Brown, druggist and bookseller, has been succeeded by the H. W. Brown Drug and Book Co.

NEW YORK CITY.—The referee is shortly to report in the matter of the dissolution of the Merriam Company and the appointment of a permanent receiver. It is believed that Mr. Ireland will be continued in office and made permanent receiver. The R. H. Merriam matter is still pending in the St. Paul (Minn.) courts, but it is expected that in a few months a definite decision will be reached.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.—Edward Green, book and newsdealer, Dulling Building, desires catalogues from the publishers of paper-bound books.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—Edward H. Mitchell, 225 Post Street, reports that he has made his last payment on the Dodge Brothers' business, and that the mortgage of $2002.26 given to secure that payment has been cancelled.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

AN IMPORTANT BOOK

NOW READY.

THE WAR WITH SPAIN.

A Complete History of the War of 1898 between the United States and Spain. By Charles Morris. With maps and illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.50. Uniform with "The Nation's Navy."

The war of 1898, while much the briefest, was in some respects one of the most important of the wars of the United States, being based upon the highest motives and yielding some of the most remarkable results. The United States has been making history fast within the past few months, and a detailed account of the causes, events, and consequences of the recent war is of the utmost moment to all Americans. Why this war was fought; how it was fought; what led to it, and what has come from it—these are the questions which Mr. Morris has clearly and conscientiously answered. He has given large space to the causes of the war, tracing fully Spain's dealings with her colonies, the barbarity and cruelty shown by her in her efforts to quell the Cuban insurrections, and the irresistible influences which forced the United States into war with that country. The battles and other events of the war are graphically and dramatically told, and the effect of the struggle on each of the combatants is clearly shown. This work, which forms a companion volume to "The Nation's Navy," by the same author, is profusely and handsomely illustrated with maps, portraits, battle scenes, etc. It is a valuable contribution to the history of our land, and should find a place in every library and in the home of every patriotic American.

PUBLISHED RECENTLY.

THE NATION'S NAVY.

Our Ships and Their Achievements. By Charles Morris. Illustrated. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"This is one of the books that deserve an immediate as well as a lasting popularity, for the reason that its every chapter is of vital and telling interest and instruction to all who kept in close touch with the eventful news of the recent war. Mr. Charles Morris, the author, tells the absorbing story of our navy, from its earliest beginnings, in a manner that is sure to win the respect and regard of every reader for the successful effort of the writer, as well as an added admiration for our country and her notable history among the nations of the earth."—Boston Courier.
